EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR’S REPORT

A. Major Bills of Concern to Membership:

a. HB 2- Capital Appropriations Bill

The Senate will not take any action on HB 2 until mid-April at the soonest as Senators have until April 8 to submit capital budget requests to Senate Finance Chairman Matt Dolan. Meanwhile, the Senate sent HB 27 to the house with partial capital budget spending, including $600 million in school facilities funding via the Ohio Facilities Construction Commission.

b. HB 27 – Capital Appropriations Bill (Senate)

The Senate in February sent HB 27 to the house with partial capital budget spending, including $600 million in school facilities funding via the Ohio Facilities Construction Commission. This action appears in response to the House’s passage of HB 2, which the Senate via Senate President publicly objected to.

c. HB 8 – Parents Bill of Rights

Despite having an opportunity to pass the bill out of committee and the Senate before the month-long March recess, Sen. Andrew Brenner opted not to hold a hearing on the bill. The Senate is expected to pass HB 8 in the spring, though it's uncertain whether that will happen due to the House-Senate infighting.

d. HB 183 - The Bathroom Bill

The House reportedly will vote on HB 183 when it returns from its March recess.

e. HB 187 – Property Tax Homestead Exemption

Only one vote – a House concurrence vote – remains for the bill that expands the homestead exemption for income-eligible seniors to reach Gov. DeWine's desk. The House, led by House Speaker Jason Stephens, has repeatedly refused to bring the bill to the floor for a concurrence and is unlikely to do so for the foreseeable future. Lawmakers are directing their focus now to the joint property tax committee for deliberation on options to address rising property values across the state.

f. HB 214 – Professional Standards for School Staff

HB 214 is pending in the Senate Education Committee where it awaits a third hearing. A politically popular bill, it's uncertain whether the rift between the House and Senate will allow the Senate to advance the House bill.

g. HB 339 – Education Savings Accounts

Rep. Adam Bird, Chairman of the House Primary and Secondary Education Committee, indicated he will likely hold a third hearing for opponent testimony as soon as April 9 on the bill that would create educational savings accounts for students in non-chartered, nonpublic schools. The bill is unlikely to be enacted in a non-budget year.

h. HB 344 - Replacement Levies and Property Tax Complaints

The House is expected to pass the bill, which eliminates replacement levies and narrows the property tax complaint process, when it returns in April from its March recess.

i. HB 250- Military Diploma Seal

The bill is pending in the Senate Education Committee where it received a hearing in February. Given the popular provisions of the bill and how few provisions exist within it, this bill could become a Christmas tree bill for the lame duck legislative session.

j. SB 17- Capitalism and Financial Literacy

Gov. DeWine signed SB 17 into law. The bill erroneously requires the State Board of Education and not the Department of Education and Workforce to adopt standards and curricula incorporating capitalism into financial literacy. A corrective amendment will be necessary for another bill.

k. SB 29 - Student Technology Records

The House has yet to hold a hearing on the bill that would prohibit technology providers from using student technology data for commercial purposes and prohibit districts from accessing or monitoring student communications on school-issued devices, with exceptions.

l. SB 49 – Student Attendance Policies

Time is running out for changes to student attendance policies to be enacted in time for the 2024-25 school year, and Rep. Bird has his sights on SB 49 to make those modifications before lawmakers depart for their summer recess in mid-June.

m. SB 104– College Credit Plus

The Senate SB 104 before its March recess, which makes modifications to the College Credit Plus program. Prior to that vote, a Senate committee stripped from the bill provisions that would have required cost-sharing for textbook fees between colleges and universities and school districts when a student uses a textbook that is not an open-source, or free, material.

n. SB 162 – Academic Intervention Plans

Despite several opportunities to do so, the House has not brought the bill up for a first hearing for sponsor testimony in the committee. It's expected that will happen in April with the legislature reconvenes.

o. SB 168 – Deregulation and Flexibility

The House is expected to hold additional hearings in April on the bill that provides deregulation and flexibility relief to districts and modifies licensure requirements. A second hearing for proponent testimony is expected in April, with additional modifications planned to the bill. It is anticipated this bill will pass committee before June but may not be enacted due to the political rift in the legislature.

p. SB 205- Drug Prevention Education

The bill, which would require annual instruction in drug prevention education and include in that education the effects of marijuana and "illicit exogenous substances," received proponent testimony in the Senate Education Committee. Written testimony was provided by local ADAMHS boards, county behavioral health organizations, and Life Changing Experiences.

q. SB 208 – Open Enrollment for Military Children

The bill, which has received only sponsor testimony so far, is expected to receive proponent testimony when lawmakers return from March recess.

B. DEW/State Board of Education

a. Reading and Math Literacy Update

We continue to meet with our coalition partners, Ohio Excels and others, to discuss the state's literacy strategy and, also a new math strategy.

b. Right to Read Event 4-17-24

The Right to Read Event flyer was electronically distributed to members prior to the meeting.

C. Other Issues

a. Joint Committee on Property Tax Review and Reform

The committee continues to hear testimony from invited groups, and schools are expected to be invited to testify in April. A report from the committee is due by December 31, 2024.

b. Cell Phones in Schools

The administration is considering a bill to prohibit cell phones in schools and members are encouraged to report their cell phone policies to the Alliance.

c. OFCC + Capital Budget

The House passed its capital budget proposal in February. The Senate, meanwhile, will work on its capital budget in April and May, with a final package to be enacted in June.
